PSYCHIATRY RESIDENCY

at Good Samaritan – Vincennes

Welcome

Dear Prospective Applicant,

Welcome to Indiana University School of Medicine Psychiatry Residency at Vincennes! Our program represents a unique opportunity for residents to become experts in Psychiatry while working in a variety of community, collaborative and academic settings. Our enthusiastic faculty members have years of experience working in diverse settings, which will give residents exposure to a wide range of psychiatric practice. It also allows residents to gain exposure to community settings in both rural and urban locations where you can train to lead inter professional teams.

Our program is structured to provide a wide variety of exposure to the different fields of Psychiatry within the first two years of training. In addition, our program offers clinical training in collaborative psychiatric care within primary care and, depending on interest, specialty clinics. These types of collaborative clinics are rapidly expanding throughout health systems to increase access to quality psychiatric care, and we provide residents the ability to train in these models as they grow in importance. Our residents will also gain wide training in medication assisted treatment for addictions integrated with robust outpatient psychotherapy and an IOP program with multiple elective options. We have a wide range of psychotherapists practicing different therapeutic modalities providing residents with clinical supervision in a wide variety of both traditional therapy and newly developed interventions.

We are unique because of our ability to train residents in community models of psychiatric practice while also providing full access to research opportunities, faculty and educational resources at Indiana University School of Medicine, which has campuses all over the state including Evansville, Indiana. We provide ample opportunities to participate in local and national conferences and encourage resident original research. As a newer program, we offer residents a once-in-a-lifetime ability to help design electives and make an impact in a program that can truly meet their needs and interests. It is our goal for residents to feel a sense of expertise and ability in our field regardless of practice setting after graduation. I am delighted in your interest in our program and look forward to discussing your goals for residency.

Sincerely,

Allie Thomas-Fannin, MD

Indiana University Psychiatry at Good Samaritan

The Psychiatry Program was created as a separate Indiana University Residency, along with Family Medicine, Internal Medicine, and later, Emergency Medicine and General Surgery, expanding the opportunity for resident training across hospitals in Southern Indiana. Good Samaritan is one of only four hospitals in the state affiliated with a Community Mental Health Center.

Internal Medicine residents co-locate with psychiatry residents at Good Samaritan. Residents are afforded opportunity based on this structure to train in a unique community-based program with full support for research, scholarship, didactic and educational support from Indiana University.

For more than 100 years, Good Samaritan has been a health care leader in southwestern Indiana and southeastern Illinois. Located in historic Vincennes, Good Samaritan is a 158-bed community health care facility with more than 1,800 employees committed to delivering exceptional patient care.

Good Samaritan serves more than 240,000 residents throughout 11 counties in southwestern Indiana and southeastern Illinois, and is proud that generations of families have chosen us as their preferred health care provider, allowing us to be the first, best place in health care.

About Vincennes

Vincennes, Indiana was founded in 1732 and is the longest continually inhabited European settlement in Indiana. Located in Knox County, Vincennes is a community often described as offering “small-town living with big-city flair.” As the home to Vincennes University, Indiana’s first university, it offers many of the amenities found in larger cities while maintaining the friendliness, comfort and safety found in small towns.

The city is located on the lower side of the Wabash River in the southwestern part of Indiana almost half way between Evansville and Terre Haute. You can hop on a freeway and explore a variety of large city cultures, then return to the serenity of your small-town home. There is a diversity of industry including education, manufacturing, mining and health care. Knox County is proud of its award-winning public and private school systems as well as multiple early childhood programs. New state-of-the-art buildings and historic facilities, updated with the latest technology, offer a variety of school choices for parents in search of just the right fit for their child.

Whether you want to stretch your muscles or your mind, Vincennes has something for you. From the arts, to sports, to the great outdoors, there is something for everyone.

Indiana School of Medicine's Psychiatry Residency at Good Samaritan is designed to provide comprehensive broad-based education in clinical psychiatric diagnosis and treatment in a community setting. Our services are organized to provide care to people with a wide range of psychiatric diagnoses using current therapies and treatment modalities. Our community mental health center provides wraparound services, and is integrated with our inpatient psychiatry unit, group homes and graduated apartments, which allows our residents a rare opportunity to follow patients throughout their care; expanding treatment and knowledge of lifetime psychiatric illness. Furthermore, residents will have education and clinical experience in developing fully integrated models of care as they work alongside inter-professional students, primary care and specialty physicians with a goal to increase access to psychiatric services within underserved communities. Upon graduation, residents will be well prepared to enter academia, public and private psychiatric practice, or go on to fellowship.
